FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Condo Metropolis LLC Launches Orlando Real Estate Pros.

Orlando, Fla. – October 24th 2008 – Two years after the launch of Orlando’s condo-only buyer website CondoMetropolis.com, its founders are ready to launch a second site aimed at mainstream real estate buyers.

“We had such a good response to our condo site,” Said the site’s founder and broker Marcus Burke, that we’ve decided to go after the single family home market.”

Despite the softest market in years and the fact that many real estate agencies are going under, Burke remains optimistic.

“We launched CondoMetropolis.com at the worst possible time, in the worst sector of the market (condos) in the hardest hit state – and yet it’s still working,” said Burke.

The company credits its success to its domination of relevant keywords in Google and their Condo Blog which reaches out to buyers to provide relevant information.

“It’s all about the internet. We realized that if we could dominate the search engines for relevant traffic we’d have a steady supply of business,” said Burke. “Even in today’s market. And if we can do the same for mainstream real estate search terms then we should also be successful in the larger marketplace.”

The Beta site goes up this week at: <http://www.OrlandoRealEstatePros.com>

Burke recently completed his term as President for the Central Park Condominium Board of Directors in MetroWest. He holds a brokers license in FL and has a PhD in social psychology from the UK.
